Wentworth Liu
gzliu0705@gmail.com

15 October 2026

ASOS Hiring Team

Re: Application for Applied Scientist

Dear ASOS Hiring Team,

What I enjoy most about applied science is the point where a difficult question becomes a decision someone can actually use. At Li Auto, I worked with noisy vehicle data to help battery and after-sales teams prioritise safety investigations and evaluate longevity strategies, then helped turn that analysis into monitored, reusable systems. At ByteDance, I built measurement tools that helped marketing teams decide where to focus their efforts. Those experiences taught me to be careful about what the evidence does—and does not—show, while doing the less visible work needed to make a model useful beyond an experiment. ASOS's Applied Scientist role appeals to me because it brings that same responsibility to products and decisions at scale. I would welcome the opportunity to contribute my experience in modelling, evaluation and production delivery, and to keep learning from your team.

Kind regards,

Wentworth Liu